MOST ATROCIOUS SINCE KISHINEFF

Is The Massacre in Progress In Siedlee.

Over Three Hundred Have Been Killed by Troops—Most of the Victims Are Jews.

EMPIRE THROBORIZED AGAIN.

Warsaw, Sept. 10.—More bloody and atrocious than any massacre since Kishineff is that in progress at Siedlee since Saturday. Authentic reports reaching here today tell of terrible carnage and atrocities, which beggar description. No end is in sight. Fighting is resumed and it is feared there will be a terrible loss of life and untold damage to property before order is restored. Over 300 people have been killed and many wounded. Many victims are women. For the most part the victims are Jews, although many Christians who attempted to protect the helpless Hebrews from the fury of the troops, were shot down and bayoneted.

Police Massacres.

Siedlee, Russian Poland, Sept. 10.—A massacre of police and soldiers began at o'clock Saturday night. Immediately afterwards troops attacked the Jews. All Sunday the soldiers attacked the civilians, Christians and Jews, robbing, assaulting and murdering without discrimination. Hundreds were killed or wounded. Three streets were devastated. It is reported that drunken reservists started the massacre. Troops surrounded the city and refuse access to all.

One Hundred Killed.

Warsaw, Sept. 10.—Terrorists Saturday evening shot and killed two soldiers garrisoning the government alcohol store at Siedlee. The infantry rushed up and fired a volley into the crowd, killing two and wounding two. This morning the terrorists retaliated by beginning a massacre of policemen and soldiers and at noon the infuriated troops attacked the Jews in the Jewish quarters of Siedlee destroying houses and shops. It is reported that over one hundred were killed or wounded and that the town is in flames.

Consul's Narrow Escape.

Baku, Sept. 10.—Leslie Dughart, British vice consul here, who was decorated by King Edward for heroism in rescuing the English subjects isolated at Balakhan from the Tartar insurgents during the massacres of 1905, was the victim of an attack and miraculously escaped death. Though fired at eight times at short range, his only injuries were six slight flesh wounds. The crime is believed to be a revolutionary act patterned after the attack on the Germans at Warsaw preceding the attempt on Gov. Gen. Skandal.

Terrorist Police Fight.

Baku, Sept. 10.—Three policemen were wounded, one fatally, by a bomb thrown at a street railroad car. A group of five revolutionaries, armed with automatic pistols, were halted today by a policeman, who ordered them to throw up their hands. They did not comply, and the policeman began exchanging shots with them. He killed one, wounded another and arrested two. One escaped.

FINE HORSES

COMING FROM MURRAY TO THE PADUCAH SHOW.

Calloway County Has Some Blooded Stock, Which Is Bettered By the Itig Event.

"Around-Murray everybody is interested in the Paducah horse show," said E. H. Hale, of that place.

"Last year's success, which was witnessed by many Murray citizens, completely won them over to the idea, and many of them will bring some of their blooded stock for exhibition.

"Murray expects to take a few ribbons and things back home as trophies of the occasion," he continued with pride. "Calloway county has some fine horses, and I believe the Paducah horse show last year had an appreciable effect, not so much directly on the horse market, as on the quality of animals. I think a census would show more fine stock in the county than last year. It is my opinion that the Paducah horse show will affect the breed in the whole of southwest Kentucky."

WAR TO KNIFE.

McClellan Will Fight Both Murphy and Hearst.

New York, Sept. 10.—There is to be no compromise between the mayor and Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall. Compromise is impossible, even in the face of the possibility of the nomination of W. R. Hearst at Buffalo. So far as the mayor is concerned, it is to be war to the knife on both Mr. Hearst and Mr. Murphy, and this war is to be carried to the floor of the state convention. The mayor will do all in his power to have delegates chosen at the primaries and district conventions favorable to William T. Jerome, and he believes that New York county will vote for the district attorney in the convention. All this was made clear today. The mayor spent the entire day at his home, No. 10 Washington Square, North.

JUST IN TIME.

Reinforcements Arrive to Save Government Train.

Havana, Sept. 10.—The government armored train which left Havana Friday jumped the track east of Consolacion del Sur. The train was surrounded by several hundred insurgents commanded by Pino Guerra in person and sustained fire all Saturday night and until 9 o'clock this morning. The train would have been captured but for the timely arrival of Col. Avalos and 400 men, who fought their way through from Consolacion del Sur.

FALL CARNIVAL OPENS ITS GATES

Twelve Big Shows at The League Park.

Mount Pelee Eruption, Wonderful Spectacle, Secured as the Free Attraction.

FIRST EXHIBITION TONIGHT.

Once more, and, perhaps, for the last time—certainly under the most unique conditions yet the voice of the speller will be heard in Paducah tonight.

Out at the ball park, where everybody can get a seat to witness the free attractions, the Fall Labor carnival will open its doors, and right here a word of explanation is due. It was the intention of the management to charge no general admission fee, but in their efforts to outdo all predecessors they found themselves involved to the extent that a nominal admission fee is necessary.

However, the ten cents charged at the gates entitles the visitor to witness the biggest attraction ever presented outdoors in Paducah, it is claimed—the Mount Pelee eruption.

For two days a corps of fifty men have been engaged in erecting the shows, and they will be busy all day today, but tonight they will have finished in time for the opening.

Over 12,000 feet of lumber is used in the construction of the booths. There are a dozen shows including the two big ones. The free show, Mount Pelee, and the San Francisco disaster.

It is claimed for the Mount Pelee eruption, that mechanical devices, and modern fire works have been combined so that a spectator naturally is enabled to form some conception of the awful grandeur of the volcano spectacle. Paducah has had no big fireworks exhibition this year and this attraction will be a treat to the populace.

This exhibition will be given in such a manner that it can be witnessed from the grand stand, and people can watch it from the seats, then go down the "pike" and return whenever they desire, the general admission ticket giving them this privilege all day and all night, as long as the carnival keeps open.

Excursion rates have been offered on all railroads and many labor organizations will attend during the week. Wednesday is the special Labor Day and the steamer Butterfield will bring an excursion from as far as Dover, Tenn.

HOT AFTER OMAHA ICE TRUST.

Mayor Dahlman Gives Out Warning of Dentist Treatment.

Omaha, Sept. 10.—The flight of the people of Omaha on the ice trust was taken up today by Mayor Dahlman in his usually vigorous style when he issued a signed statement as a notification to the ice companies that high-handed tactics would not be tolerated. "Herenfier," says the mayor, "when people complain of being short-weighted on ice and file a complaint the same will be prosecuted without cost to them, and if the seller is convicted and then refuses to furnish ice to the people that make complaint, if they have the money to pay for it, and will telephone me, I will instruct the chief of police to send a policeman and take charge of the driver, wagon and ice."

HURRYING BACK

From His Wife's Funeral! Who Stopped Him for Speeding.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 10.—The Evanston police arrested L. Sawdy, chauffeur for J. C. Brocklebank, 3009 Kenmore avenue today, for auto speeding. Mr. Brocklebank, who is vice president and general manager of the Manufacturers' Paper company, was returning from the funeral of his wife, with her in the machine. Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Whitney and their two daughters, Sawdy, was charged with running the machine 19 miles an hour. The case will be heard September 12.

Mattoon, Ill., Sept. 10.—The Kilt League's fourth season came to a glorious end in this city Sunday—that is so far as the Mattoon-Charleston combination was concerned. The remnant of Chief Lloyd's once great and powerful tribe of Paducah Indians was at the mercy of the locals from start to finish. They wound up a series of about the most disastrous flock of losses possible, being unable to win a single game from the tallenders. As a result they are only one place from the bottom, the identical place they were in at the finish of the race for the flag in 1903.

King Platt pitched a splendid game for the Indians, but the bad fielding behind gave Mattoon two runs and enough by that many to have won twice. Jokerst, for Mattoon, finished his first season in the Kitty by pitching a steady shut out game. The few hits secured by the Indians were widely scattered and only two of the redskins reached third base.

The largest crowd of the season at the local park witnessed the last game of the year.

The score: R H E
Paducah 0 6 5
Mattoon 2 2 0

Batteries—Jokerst and Johnson; Platt and Taylor.

One to Nothing at Hoosierville.

Vincennes, Ind., Sept. 10.—The locals won the last game of the season yesterday afternoon by a score of 1 to 0. The game was well played and the crowd was large. The flash-slingers were in good trim but out-classed, and notwithstanding the fact that the pennant was already the property of the locals, the visitors played a good game. Jacksonville has three games yet to play but Cairo has second place "cinched."

The score: R H E
Cairo 0 2 2
Vincennes 1 3 1

Jacksonville, Ill., Sept. 10.—The visitors hit Fox at will and won in a walkover from the locals yesterday.

No Team Next Year.

The question of whether Paducah will have a league team next year is one that is troubling the fans and from indications Paducah will not be a member of any league.

This morning several representatives of the Paducah Baseball association stated that the chance of Paducah being in a league next season is doubtful. This season the Paducah management lost between $3,000 and $4,000 and stuck the season through, because the men behind the gun did not want to give up and be termed "quitters."

"It looks doubtful," said Mr. A. H. Meyers, who has conducted the affairs of the Paducah baseball club this season for the association, when asked about the outlook. "The association has lost money but stuck it out because the men had gone in for the sport. I think I can say that the present members will not stand for a non-paying investment next year."

The report that the Paducah Traction company will continue the sport is erroneous, the company having no desire to take it up.

TROUBLE GALORE

Follow Failure of Baker to Meet Objections Promptly.

Because it is alleged he failed to pay $4.50 in cash which he had borrowed but a few hours before, Joe McMahon had a warrant issued against Lester Park for obtaining money by false pretenses.

Park is a well-known baker working for the Kreutzer company. He had wages coming to him and so informed McMahon, when he made the "touch" Sunday. Park it is said, failed to procure his money and did not pay the debt. McMahon appeared before Magistrate C. W. Emery, acting for Police Judge Puryear in the Inter's absence, and took out the warrant. Park claimed that he told McMahon he had money coming to him and that all his representations were true. Following the warrant issued by McMahon, C. W. Meacham of Third and Clark streets, swore out a warrant against Park charging him with attempting to defraud him in the payment of his board bill. McMahon and Park board at the same place.

Adath Israel.

Louisville, Sept. 8.—Elaborate and imposing services marked the ceremonies of dedication by which the members of Adath Israel congregation celebrated the completion of the beautiful temple which adorns Third avenue near its intersection with Library Court. The services began last evening and Sunday morning further celebration of the event, which marks an epoch for the congregation, now one of the most powerful in America, takes place. Today many prominent rabbis from all parts of the country arrived to take part in the services, which will thus be an affair of national importance. The erection of the temple at a cost of $150,000 and the prominence of the congregation have combined to make the event one that has attracted more than usual attention. The doors of the temple will open one hour before each service, and admission will be strictly by ticket, as the seating arrangements are such that no other method will prove satisfactory. The temple will hold 1,350 people, and it is safe to say that every seat will be taken at each service.

NEWS OF KENTUCKY

Farmers' Institutes.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 10.—Acting under the provisions of the act of the general assembly, in regular session, providing for the holding of a farmers and industrial institute in each county of the state annually Agricultural Commissioner Hubert Vreeland has announced appointments for the holding of such meeting in nearly every one of the one hundred and nineteen counties of the commonwealth. Only those were left out of the schedule that could not be reached at this time, and meetings will be arranged later for them.

Under the statute the meetings must be of two days' duration, and the holding of them will consume the time from September 21, when the first institute will be held at Brandenburg, Meade county, until December 20, at Carlisle, Nicholas county.

For convenience the commissioner has divided the state into four Farmers' Institute districts to be known as Western Institute district, Central Institute district, Eastern Institute district, first division, and Eastern Institute, second division.

The meetings will open in the several districts simultaneously.

In addition to the regular schedule special institute meetings have been arranged by the commissioner. One of these will be held at Paducah in October, and another at Lexington the latter part of that month, in conjunction with the meeting of the Kentucky state grange.

Still another will be held at Maysville during the annual tobacco fair of northwestern Kentucky and in the counties of Jefferson, Henry, Franklin and Shelby on dates not yet arranged.

Among the well known lecturers on agricultural matters whose services he has obtained are P. G. Holden, of Iowa; Alva Gree, Joseph E. Wing and J. T. McIntyre, of Ohio; Moses F. Johnson, of Jefferson county; C. M. Hanna, of Shelby county; J. R. Walker, of Christian county; Lowell Roudabush, of Ohio; J. P. Davis, of Indiana, and R. C. Crenshaw, of the state department all of whom, under the administration of Mr. Vreeland, have assisted in institute work and are well known to the agriculturists of Kentucky.

Special Meeting Announced.

Under the provisions of the new agricultural statute each of the county institutes held will elect one or more delegates to a state Industrial Institute, to be held at Frankfort or some other convenient place between the first day of January and the first day of March next year.

At this state meeting each county shall have one vote, and at this meeting there will be elected two members, from appellate districts, of the state board of agriculture. Forestry and immigration for a period of four years, to fill vacancies occurring by the expiration of the terms of two of the members appointed by the governor immediately after the adjournment of the legislative act.

FOR DEVELOPMENT OF COMMONWEALTH

Fifth Convention Will Meet at Winchester.

Seventy-Two Counties are Enrolled
and Twenty Will Be Report
From Each.

PROGRAM OF THE MEETING.

Attention of leading farmers and business men of the state is now being attracted to the fifth state development convention to be held at Winchester October 10, 11 and 12. The committee in charge of the arrangements at Winchester is working hard in preparing for it, and are enthusiastic over the prospect of an excellent program and a large attendance.

The program will include six business sessions. The convention will be called to order at 1:30 p.m., Wednesday, October 10, and there will be an evening session that day. Thursday morning the delegates will go on an excursion to Beattyville, as the guests of the Winchester Commercial club, where some of the eastern Kentucky coal mines and lumber plants near there will be visited, lunch to be served by the citizens of Beattyville, and a short business session held. Returning to Winchester, an evening session will be held that day, and on Friday and Friday evening, the last day, three sessions will be held.

Senator William Lindsay, of New York, has accepted an invitation to act as chairman of the convention.

A feature of much interest on the program is that of the roll-call of counties. Seventy-two counties responded in the roll call at Louisville, and the committee expect to have more responses this year. Each county judge in the state has been asked to select a man in his county to prepare a statement, to be used on the roll call of counties, setting forth county statistics in answer to the following questions: 1—In what does your county excel? 2—What does your county need most? 3—What is its labor supply, and what wages does such labor command? 4—What factories and other industries have you? Given the capital employed, extent of business, number of employees and amount paid in wages.

The information thus furnished to the convention will be compiled and given wide publicity throughout the United States to attract to Kentucky capital seeking investment.

This matter is one that should not be overlooked in this country. It is an excellent means of advertising our resources and desirability as a location of such industries as we need, and of bringing before the public what we have and what we want. Men throughout the country who are seeking investment read the literature of such bodies as the state development convention, and a good, strong statement from our county will be of much value to us. We want other people to know us and to know what we have.

FORECAST OF WEEK.

Tuesday will be held the convention of the Independence League of New York state in New York city. The session probably will continue two days. The league will nominate a full ticket, the sentiment, however, being divided as to the wisdom of placing an entire ticket in the field. It is regarded as certain that William R. Hearst will be the candidate for governor.

The Democrats of Connecticut will hold their convention at Hartford Tuesday. It is expected that Charles F. Thayer, of Norwalk, will be nominated for governor and John M. Ney, of Hartford, for lieutenant governor.

On the same day will be held the California Democratic convention at Sacramento.

The Maine state election will be held today. The leaders of both parties are uncertain to an unusual degree and many surprises are looked for. The Republican leaders are quoted as admitting that, largely because of the so-called Sturgis liquor law, the state ticket probably will not have a plurality exceeding 11,000. For nearly a decade the Republican plurality has been 65,000.

Wednesday the Prohibitionists of Maryland will meet at Laurel, also Wednesday the graduation exercises of the Naval Academy will be held at Annapolis.

The national convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen at Milwaukee will be held today.

The Republican Ohio convention meets Tuesday. Interest centers in the fight against Senator Dick as chairman of the state convention.

FARMING IS CHANGING.

It Is Coming More and More to Be An Attractive Business.

The character of farming is changing rapidly. It is coming more and more to be an efficient, profitable, and attractive business. With here and there an exception, in the past we have not given much consecutive thought to the business—nothing like as much as the merchant gives to his business or the doctor to his. It has been so "easy" a business that untrained men could succeed in it. The change in economic and social conditions is breaking up the tradition. Farming is becoming more difficult, and the old methods must go. In the future only the well-informed and efficient thinking man can succeed; that is, only the educated man.

The country is to offer other advantages to the educated man than merely to be a good farmer. There are good opportunities for leadership on public questions—probably better opportunity and with less competition than in the great cities. The very fact that city representation is increasing in the legislatures should make the able country representative more of a marked man.

It seems to me that, by the very nature of the progress we are making, the college man must go to the farm. In fact, college men have been going back from the beginning of the agricultural education movement. Statistics show that a very large percentage actually have returned to farming, and this in spite of the fact that cities have been growing with marvelous rapidity, and that the whole system of agricultural colleges and experiment stations has been developing and calling for men. Considering the limitations under which the agricultural colleges have developed, without sympathy, with the indifference and sometimes the opposition of educators—the very men who should have known better—with wholly inadequate funds, it is little less than marvelous what they have accomplished within a generation. It is probable that the proportion of students of the leading agricultural colleges who now engage in agricultural pursuits is greater than students of that of colleges of law or of other professional colleges who follow their chosen profession. No one now questions the value of education to a lawyer or physician; why question its value to a farmer? The educated man will go back to the farm if he is fitted to be a farmer.

AMERICAN TOBACCO GROWERS' PROFIT

CUBAN REVOLUTION COMES AT RIGHT TIME.

Cost of Running Government Printing Office Is Six Million Dollars Annually.

THE NON-REFILLABLE BOTTLE.

Washington, Sept. 10.—"It is an ill wind that blows nobody good," says an old saw; and while slaves of My Lady affect the world over have just cause to regard the Insurrection in Cuba with fear and trembling, American tobacco growers in the sunny south are likely to reap a rich profit in consequence. A moment more deadly in its effects on the tobacco industry could not have been chosen for the uprising. Some of the choicest tobacco in the world is raised in the Pinar del Rio province of Cuba, where the revolutionists are holding forth with an earnestness which makes it impossible for the tobacco growers to attend to the now fully ripened crop. A few days more and it will be hopelessly ruined. Last year's crop was short because of heavy rains in the island, which not only ruined the unharvested crop, but rendered large areas of the finest tobacco lands unfit for tillage. This fact accounted, in a large measure, for the very satisfactory prices received for the American product. Reserve supplies were very much depleted, and if the present Cuban crop is forthcoming at the proper time, prices for domestic grades are likely to go sky high.

The situation is viewed with particular anxiety by Washington cigar manufacturers and dealers, whose trade demands the finest qualities of tobacco in large quantities. Much of this comes from the famous Vinales Abajo district, and if the Insurrection should extend to that province, the results are too dire for contemplation. Very little tobacco from Cuba has been received by local manufacturers this year, and they declare that all appeals for a fresh supply are in vain.

Cost of Printing.

If talk be cheap, then the records of the government printing office—the largest printing establishment in the world—show the exception which proves the rule. Approximately $6,000,000 a year are required to run this immense plant, which is now taking advantage of the summer recess to catch up with its one job of printing congressional talk and the government records and documents. The most important items of cost are coal and gas, which amount to some $30,000 a year; but even the seemingly most trivial supplies account for thousands of dollars in the grand total. About 40,000 pounds of common book ink are required for ordinary work, besides thousands of pounds of job ink, embossing varnish and many special makes of ultramarine, poster red and label inks for the finer work; and it takes nearly 200,000 towels and 12 tons of soap to remove the surplus ink from the hands of the employees. The laundering of the towels alone costs $3,500 a year. About 3,000 barrels of sawdust are used every year, chiefly in keeping siftings in a sanitary condition. Fifty thousand pounds of glue, 200 barrels of flour, $8,000 worth of thread, 35,000 pounds of twine, $50,000 worth of cotton and book cloths are some of the other items of expense. More than four tons of glue, 30 barrels of flour, 60,000 yards of cloth, five cartloads of binders' board, a ton of thread, 36,000 yards of tape and $5,000 worth of gold leaf for ornamenting the very simple cover design, the consumed by a single publication—the famous year book of the department of agriculture.

Named for President.

So many honors are thrust upon a president of the United States that some jealous individuals have declared that Mr. Roosevelt had no occasion to seek additional fame at the hands of the simplified spelling board. In support of this contention, they cite that botanical marvel, the Roosevelt gourd, sure to perpetuate his memory for all time, and the recently discovered Roosevelt trout, which undoubtedly allowed himself to be discovered a few days ago only that he might be named after the president. A still later honor is a consignment of 92 varieties of orchids just received from the Philippines and placed in the president's private collection of these rare plants, which now completely fills one of the large hothouses in the government propagating gardens. The consignment numbered 702 plants, very few of which will be lost. Accompanying the shipment was a list of the names of the plants, which has not yet been printed as a public document; but it is confidently believed that "Roosevelt" is one of them.

Non-Refillable Bottle.

The patent office has just issued papers, which, it is said, will convert from a long cherished dream to an existing reality, the non-refillable bottle. Next in number to those who devote their time to perpetual motion machines come the would-be inventors of a bottle that can't be refilled, which is much in demand among liquor dealers who do not relish the idea of low grade goods being sold under their labels. There are, of course, hundreds of patents asked every year for alleged non-refillable bottles which never pan out. The one in question, however, which is somewhat complicated with valves, floats and the like, is said—by the man who invented it—to be all that has been sought after.

STRONG CANDIDATE.

Judge James Breathitt Mentioned for Governor.

Judge James Breathitt, of Hopkinsville, is in the city today en route to Smithland to attend court. Judge Breathitt is favorably mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for governor. He is one of the finest orators in the state and has an excellent judicial mind. He was on the circuit bench for a term. He is considered by many as west Kentucky's strongest candidate for the Republican nomination.

Let Us Show You the Mother of Pearl Engraving on Fancy Stationery, the Latest

THIS is the newest thing in monogram stamping. The Mother-of-Pearl Stamping on fancy stationery is undoubtedly the most remarkable discovery, and makes the prettiest work of this nature that the engravers have yet turned out. Your monogram looks as if it were cut out of pearl, and the result is a beautiful conceit.

This engraving is all the rage among the people who know what is what, and we are the only establishment in Paducah doing such work.

Your old plate can be used or a new monogram ordered.

Come in and let us show you samples of the stationery, if you want to see something swell.

We have as complete a line of samples of wedding invitations and all kinds of engraving as any of the famous houses in the cities can show you and our prices are very much lower. We shall be glad to send you samples anywhere, any time. Just phone us when wanting them.

Daisy Lee Gilbert, Four Years Old Sent to Her Home.

Daisy Lee Gilbert, four years old, who lives at the Laveau hotel, Third and Jefferson streets, was found on Broadway this morning by Judge Hendricks and sent to the police station, as she was lost and could tell little of her home. She told her name and a half dozen families by the name of Gilbert were called up. She said they had two telephones at her house. Finally Miss Byrd Edington, Mayor Yeiser's stenographer, caught the sound "you," and suggested that the police call the Laveau hotel which they did.

One person may pass it by and not even see it, or he may trample it under foot and call it an ugly weed; another may see the very same flower, and as he looks upon it, marvel at its beauty and recognize the handiwork of God. nesses can be had. Both are colored.

Both women reside on Washington

Mattice Martin's house.

The matches were four and the wall bore evidence of having been saturated with coal oil.

premises of Frank Lee on the May-years ago I contracted a cough which grew worse, until I was hardly able to move around. I coughed consistently and nothing relieved my terrible suffering until I tried Dr. King's New Discovery. Before I had taken half a bottle my cough was much better and in a short time I was entirely cured. I surely believe it saved my life. It will always be my family remedy for colds." Fully guaranteed; 50c and $1.00 at all druggists. Total bottle free.

Alleged Liquor Cases.
Today Magistrate Charles W. Emery is examining witnesses to see if Pale Ale or any intoxicants were sold is alleged that Wes Flowers and Will Greek, who conduct refreshment stands near the park, are guilty of selling intoxicating liquors without a license. About thirty witnesses have been summoned.

some of the savage tribes in the Philippines subject their captives, reminds me of the intense suffering I

The Bath Comedy

By AGNES and EGERTON CASTLE
Authors of "The Pride of Jennie"

COPYRIGHT, 1900, BY EGERTON CASTLE

"Look out a boat, may, two or three, 'tis safer! Talk discreetly with them in the pump room, let them fan you at the ball, let them meet you in Orange Grove. Or, if you not spirit enough, start but an imaginary one, merely for the use of your lord and master. I wager you he will rise to the fly."

She pushed Lady Standish before her as she spoke, herself rang the bell half-slow, "you're a fine gentleman and a pretty fellow, you have a most leg and an eloquent turn of speech, but I will not have the child's heart broken for the amusement of an idle day."

She took the letter between each little finger and thumb as if to tear it, thought better of it, folded it again and thrust it back into its place of confinement.

Presently she smiled to herself, and walked out of the long open window across the little strip of garden, and so through the iron gate into the shady back street.

CHAPTER II.

SIR JASPER STANDISH halted on the flags of the royal crescent in front of his own door and his face darkened. He took a pinch of snuff.

"Nay, I shall find my lady in tears. What strange world it is! The girl you woo is as merry as May day; the wife you wed is like night but early November—equinoctial gales and water enough to drown the best spirits that ever were stilled. 'Tis a stamp life," said Sir Jasper, "and a depressing."

He stood as the door was thrown open by the footman and crossed the hall into the morning room, where he had left his lady sleeping. He beheld a flowered boudoir, a very shapely back and a crisp powdered head outlined against the window and thought he had come upon a visitor unawares.

"I crave ten thousand pardons," quoth he, and swept from his gallant head his knowing three-cornered hat. But slowly the figure at the window turned and he saw his wife's eyes strangely brilliant over two pink cheeks, beneath the snow of her up-plied hair.

"Julia!" said he in amaze, and stared and stared again. ("And did I doubt my own taste?" thought he to himself. "Why, she is the prettiest woman in Bath!") "Expecting visitors, Julia?" He smiled as he spoke. In another minute that arm, shining pearl-like from the hanging lace of her sleeve, would be round his neck, and those lips thow red they were, and what a curvish could be upon him. Well, a loveling woman had her uses.

"No," said Lady Standish to his query. She dropped the word with a faintly scornful smile, and a dimple came and went at the corner of her lip. There was a patch just above the dimple. Then she turned away and looked forth into the still, solemn, gray and green crescent as before.

Sir Jasper stood bewildered. Then he put his hat upon a table and came up to his wife and pinched his arm round her waist.

He glanced down at the tapping shoe, its little pointing toe and curving heel. "Twas a smart shoe, and boasted a diamond buckle in a knot of rose-colored ribbon.

Sir Jasper took her hand. "It wants," said he, "full half an hour to dinner time, love. Nay, do not draw your hand away. You are vexed with me? I left you weeping. Twas unkind."

"Weeping?" said Julia, and her heart fluttered to her throat so that she could hardly speak, and Kitty's maxims kept dancing before her eyes as if written in letters of fire. "Make him jealous—oh, if you make him jealous you will win the rubmer yet!"

"If I wept," said she, "must my tears have been for you?"

"How now?" said Sir Jasper, and dropped the little hand that struggled so gently yet determinedly to be free.

Lady Standish trifled the bar of a song and directed her attention to the view of the crescent outside.

"Julia," said her husband in a deep voice.

"airy?" she said, and tilted her little head.

"Who then were your tears for if they were not for me? What signify these manners? What do these insinuations mean? By Jupiter, I will have the truth!" His face flushed, the veins on his temples swelled, his nostrils became dilated.

"I would rather," she said, and her voice shook. "I would rather you did not question me, Sir Jasper." Then she flushed upon him in anger, swift and lovely as he had never seen her flush before. "You go your own way free enough," she said. "These last three weeks you have not spent one evening in my company, and half your days are given to others of whom I know nothing. Oh, I am not complaining, sir! I did complain, but that is over. I was wrong, for I see advantages have their advantages." Here she smiled. Had the man but known how near she was to tears! "Your neglect leaves me free."

"I know," I tell you! Let that suffice."

She strayed in anguish, watching clinging still to the widow post. Then he hissed:

"I know!"

"Sir Jasper!"

"I know, I tell you!" repeated Sir Jasper. "Let that suffice."

"Good heavens," gasped Lord Verney. "here is some most grievous mistake! Do you mean, sir—am I to understand, Sir Jasper—'Tis monstrous!" White dismay and crimson confusion chased each other across his sandal brow. "Surely you do not mean me to understand that Lady Standish has any connection with this extraordinary scene?"

Sir Jasper's trembling hand was faintly uplifted, then timidly sought his sword hilt and then dropped in impotent disgust at his side.

"My lord," said he. "Lady Standish is the pearl of womanhood. I would have you know it! There never breathed a female more virtuously attached to her husband and her duty—I would have you know it!" His face was quite horrible to look at in its withering sorenson. "My quarrel with you, sir, is—" He paused and cast a roving eye upon the young gentleman who now began to show unequivocal signs of fear. A jealous husband, a contingency that may have to be met today—but a ravishing maniac!

"'Tis the shape of your leg that troubles me, sir. You have a vile calf I cannot endure that so offend me, outline should pass and repress my windows."

"I understand, Sir Jasper; yes, yes," said Lord Verney soothingly, backsliding as he spoke and casting nervous eyes round the empty street. "And so good morning." He bowed and turned.

"Hast?" cried Sir Jasper, and shot forth a clutching hand.

"I will bear it in mind," cried Lord Verney. "Good morning, good morning!"

He was fleeing away on a swift foot.

"Hast! Hast!" screamed the enraged baironet, starting in pursuit. But his position made him clumsy. He stumbled, lurched, struck his foot against a stone, fell upon his knee and rose in another mood; one of dorkling, sulky determination for revenge.

Lord Verney was a timid young man.

As the day grew, however, he began to have a curious recollection of Lady Standish's lovely smiling greeting and of that little gesture with the white handkerchief, which had almost seemed like the blowing of a kiss there! His very ears would grow hot, then off Sir Jasper's inexplicable wrath, and of the striken figure by the window! Could it be? "Twas impossible! When the dusk fell he made up his mind and sought the counsels of that fashionable friend who was kind enough to pilot his inexperience through the first shoals and rocks of bath life. This gentleman's name was Speler. He called himself captain; of what regiment he one knew.

CHAPTER III.

SIR JASPER came striding back to the house. In the morning room he passed his wife without a word.

Ten minutes later he sailed forth again. She heard his steps ring out; they sounded very desperate. She sat on the pink striped settee in a misery too deep this time for tears. How puerile, how far away, seemed the morning's storm! She sat with her hands locked and her eyes staring revolving terrible possibilities and fruitless plans for preventing them. Dinner was served in vain. Her ladyship's woman brought her a dish of tea. This poor nulla drunk, for she felt faint and weary. Then a sudden thought struck her.

"The Mistress Hellairs who made the mischief," she thought; "now she must mend it." She dashed off a despairing note to the lady and dispatched her black page with all possible celerity.

I have told you my advice—can the gathering times to my solitude. You told me to write to Mrs. Jas. J. Jefferson to make him jealous and increased me to make him fair for there is something between me and Lord Verney. Poor young man, I have spoken to him but three times in my life! There will be a diet, and they will both be killed. Come to me dear Mistress Hellairs, and see what is to be done, for I am half dead with fear and anguish.

"'Tis vastly well," said Lord Verney, with an attempt at dignity that betrayed the boy in every line of him.

The all at once color flushed into his face again, and his rigid demeanor was broken up. "Come, devil take it all, Sir Jasper," said he, "and what is it about?"

Sir Jasper threw bloodshot eyes upward.

"This fellow," quoth he, appealing to heaven, "oh, this pretty fellow! You want reasons, my Lord Verney?"

Lord Verney blushed and stammered. He'd like to know what he had done. He was at Sir Jasper's disposition, of course, but before drawing swords on a man—Sir Jasper uttered a sound which was between a groan and a roar. He indicated with sweeping gesture the figure of Lady Standish.

"Come, come," cried Mistress Hellairs, heedless of the presence of footmen with tapers and lady's maid with winking curl paper. "Put up this minute, Julia, and tell me the whole from the beginning. It is no use your trying to extenuate, for I will know that has happened."

She strayed in anguish, watching clinging still to the widow post. Then he hissed:

"I know, I tell you!" repeated Sir Jasper. "Let that suffice."

Republican Campaign Text Book Is sued—Perry Recorded in the Platform This Year.

HOME CAKE IN THE PANTRY.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—The Republican party's achievements for half a century and particularly its record in the present congress, is commended to the voters in a campaign text book out today by the Republican congressional committee.

The book contains 273 pages, and is replete with Republican doctrine, mirroring practically every subject upon which information may be desired. Radicalism or conservatism, it declares, are never matters of concern to Republicans. As "they are bent on practical and progressive deals and the maturing of those ideas into positive performance."

Every statement made and all figures printed are declared in the foreword of the book to be official or authoritative. The book calls attention to the fact that since 1885 the house of representatives has been Republicans and adds "there is every reason to expect that a substantial working

Republican majority will be elected

next November."

Only Democratic success, it is desired, can prevent the giving to the people of the country a new record in every phase of our industrial life.

A list of 23 instances of important

Republican legislation follows, beginning with the homestead law, signed by Lincoln. Then follow extracts from speeches, remarks and messages of President Roosevelt, on various matters, various statistics, and the railway rate law in full.

The keynote of tariff question is stated in the following statement:

"The protectionists do not claim the schedules are sacred and are never to be altered. They do claim, however, that the so-called American system of protection, as exemplified in the Dingley law, for nine years, is sacred and must be maintained.

After quoting the letter of President Roosevelt dated August 18, to Vanson, analyzing the issues of the on-going campaign, the book closes with a quotation from Speaker Canton's new platform: "Put none but one who can control it to the tariff."

A great many business men seem to think that it takes a deal of driving, scolding, fault finding to get the best out of others. It is, however, just the opposite. Employees never give up their best in response to forcing methods.

I know a young man who promises to be a leader in his line who is as quiet and gentlemanly in his methods

as a modest woman. He never raises his voice, never gets angry. When an employee needs correcting, instead of scolding or nagging, he sits right down and shows him or her just how to do the thing. He tries to help them out of their difficulty, not to confuse them. He does not need to scold, because everybody respects him, admires him, and knows he is always trying to do the fair thing, to give a square deal, that he wan-t's only what is just and right, and there is nothing arbitrary in his methods.

The result is, he does not need to storm around his establishment and use abusive, profane language. He

Greetings to the Public from New Firm

We greet you today, at the beginning of our career, with a most cordial and sincere invitation to visit our new store and also inspect the merchandise we have selected to meet the approval of a people we are proud to serve.

In assembling our stocks we had recourse to the best markets the world affords, and each line of goods was selected with care and taste by men who have made such things a life's work.

These men, who will assist in building this business, are well and favorably known to you.

We are all home boys and are enthusiastic about our new store, and confident of its future.

But we want to share our enthusiasm with you. We want an opportunity to show you how carefully we have planned for your convenience and the thought we have put into selecting things that bid for your approval.

The policy of the business will be absolute integrity; a dollar in value for a dollar in money, and the striving at all times to give you that is possible in value so you will say of us "There is nothing too good for their customers."

We shall strive earnestly to make this store an ideal shopping place in every detail, and to evidence to you "when it comes from Culley's you know it is right."

Come in to see us in passing--come in any time, you will always be made welcome.

MR. GUY JONES.
Mr. Jones will assist Mr. Boulware in the furnishing department. He too is one of the younger "boys" that has shown marked ability and appreciation of his work. He has been connected with one of the leading local clothing houses for several years and is extremely popular with a wide circle of friends. He will give special attention to the younger men and boys' clothing which his department is showing the requirements of the leading makers in the country.

MR. EDWIN BROWN.
Edwin Brown is the son of Mr. Enoch Brown. He came on with the new firm in his "first appearance." He is a very popular young man, with a host of friends. He will be in the clothing department and has taken an interest in the new firm befitting an older head. He is anxious to show his friends the ideal shopping store of Paducah.
